WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOC. TO HOLD HOLIDAY PROGRAM

On Saturday, Dec. 10 at 7 p. m. at the Elementary School the Woodstock Historical Society will hold its annual Christmas program. Members are asked to bring some memento from a particularly memorable Christmas in their past to discuss. They are also asked to bring a Christmas present to exchange not to exceed a $2 value; a man brings a present for a man and a woman for a woman.

has been fairly active. Curator Larry Billings took an exhibit to Ledgeview Memorial Home for the residents there. He gave a history of Bryant Pond and of the Historical Society itself and then discussed exhibit items. Among the items on exhibit were an old canteen once belonging to William Ellery, an old opera glove box, an apple peeler, pictures of the old hotel, opera house, and various village stores, an advertising fan, Augusta, Mrs. Sylvia Luxton and etc. Last Wednesday the Histori-Mrs. Florice Paul, both of Bethel; ical Society joined with the Universalist Church to sell items at their Christmas Fair. The Society wishes everyone in the area a merry Christmas season.
